Pastor's Page

Our first reading today comes from the Book of Deuteronomy. It is certainly one of the most interesting, important and influential books of the Old Testament. The New Testament cites or alludes to Deuteronomic texts almost two hundred times. Deuteronomy's self understanding as a written, authoritative document gave rise to the very concepts of Scripture and canon.

Its purpose was to provide Israel with some direction for its future at a time when its future was in great doubt. Literally in Hebrew it means "second law". It is one of the Books of the Pentateuch, the first five books of the Hebrew bible (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers).

In the passage today, Moses assures the people that God will not leave them alone after his death. The people will be guided by intermediaries who stand between them and God, whose presence and voice struck fear in the people. The prophets who follow will relay the words of God, which he will place in their mouths. The word prophet literally means, "one who speaks out" or "one who is called".

The Gospel today is a continuation of the first chapter in Mark. Mark's readers do not learn so much what Jesus teaches in the Capernaum synagogue but they do learn how he teaches (with authority). The people are astonished and amazed. The unclean spirit is overwhelmed. Mark wants to emphasize that Jesus not only speaks with authority he also acts with power.

For Mark and for first century Christians, the unclean spirits and demons represented evil, mysterious powers who were hostile to God, health and goodness. They also were perceptive and able to recognize the power of God. Here the unclean spirit reveals Jesus and the "Holy one of God". The unclean spirit tries to thwart Jesus mission for goodness. Jesus two commands are sharper and more forceful than the challenges of the unclean spirit. Mark's intention in this early chapter is to make his readers confident in their Lord as teacher and healer.

Looking deeper, Mark wants more from his readers (and us listeners) than simple amazement. He wants them to be alert when Jesus reveals himself in less appealing ways. Will you also be amazed when Jesus begins to teach that the Son of Man has to suffer much, be rejected by the chief priest, be put to death and rise three days later? This starts to take place after the half way point of the Gospel in chapter 8. Will we recognize him for who he is when he hangs upon the cross, abandoned by most of his followers who were amazed by the first signs of his power.

The followers of Mark's Jesus can have much confidence in Jesus as wonderworker. This is why we must read the whole Gospel and make the whole journey. We must deny ourselves, take up the cross and follow him. (8:34)

SPONSOR GUIDELINES FOR BAPTISM/ CONFIRMATION

Church law requires that Baptism and Confirmation sponsors themselves frequent the sacraments regularly.

When someone who does not meet that requirement is designated as a sponsor, it is always an unpleasant (and frequently painful) experience for the priest, the parents of the child, and most especially for the person designated.

The reason a sponsor must be a practicing Catholic is that a sponsor is expected to pay special attention to the efforts of the person who is being baptized or confirmed to live a Christian life in keeping with the teachings of the Catholic Church. In the case of Baptism, sponsors are also expected to assist the parents of the child in their Christian duty as parents, by offering them support through good example, encouragement and prayer.

A sponsor should be a registered parishioner of IHM for at least 6 months. The person should also have received all the Sacraments of Initiation: Baptism, Eucharist, Confirmation. The Sponsor must be at least 16 years of age. The Sponsor should also participate at Mass each Sunday. If married, the sponsor must also be in a valid Sacramental marriage.

By issuing a Sponsor Certificate, a priest assures members of the faithful that a person is a Catholic in good standing who is eligible to serve as a sponsor for Baptism and/or Confirmation. Please contact the Rectory during regular business hours to inquire about Sponsor Certificates.
