Pastor's Page

The second reading today is from the Letter to the Hebrews. It is one of the most eloquently written works of the New Testament. Its origin is actually shrouded in mystery. Over the last two thousand years there has been a great deal of inconclusive speculation about its author, place of writing and destination.

Traditionally it has sometimes been attributed to St. Paul, but all modern scholars agree that it is not by St. Paul and it actually originally was not addressed to the "Hebrews". This should not lead us to any negative thoughts about the work however. On the contrary, it is a magnificent work, treasured for centuries in the life of the Church and well worth our effort to read and study it carefully. I would recommend it to your summer spiritual reading.

It is also clearly not a letter, even in the broad category of New Testament letters. It has no letter greeting and is not addressed to any particular church or individual. It is more in the form of a sermon, a written sermon, and it is important as one of the very earliest Christian sermons on record. It combines theological explanation with exhortation to persevere in hope and faith. It is a completely self-contained theology of salvation in Christ.

Hebrews shows us a dimension of early Christianity that is entirely centered on the death of Jesus as the saving act. Secondly, the sermon is important because it shows us more clearly than any other New Testament writing the extent to which the interpretation of the Old Testament played a role in the development of early Christian thought. This is important for the Christian belief in the continuity of salvation history from creation to redemption, but Hebrews illustrates this in a special way. The literary structure of Hebrews intermingles doctrinal teaching and moral exhortation.

In the passage today from Hebrews Chapter 11, the patriarch Abraham is explored as an example of fidelity. Without knowing where he was going, Abraham left his home and followed God's call in order to receive his inheritance. This was in light of "Faith being the realization of what is hoped for and evidence of things not seen".

In the Gospel reading from Luke's Gospel, Jesus continues to teach the disciples the appropriate response to possessions in the light of the coming reign of God. "Where your treasure is, there also will your heart be" Vs. 34. Earlier Jesus had reminded them to seek the kingdom and now he warns about watchfulness. Early Christians expected that Jesus would return very soon and fully establish God's reign on earth. As the time between the Resurrection and the return lengthened, the vigilance of believers waned.

Jesus words are still instructive for us. Our time frame of looking at things is not God's time frame of looking at things. Jesus continues to urge us to make ourselves ready for the Master's return, for we do not know when that will happen. Let us continue to be prepared for whenever the appointed hour comes so that we will be eager to meet the Lord.

SPONSOR GUIDELINES FOR BAPTISM/ CONFIRMATION

Church law requires that Baptism and Confirmation sponsors themselves frequent the sacraments regularly.

When someone who does not meet that requirement is designated as a sponsor, it is always an unpleasant (and frequently painful) experience for the priest, the parents of the child, and most especially for the person designated.

The reason a sponsor must be a practicing Catholic is that a sponsor is expected to pay special attention to the efforts of the person who is being baptized or confirmed to live a Christian life in keeping with the teachings of the Catholic Church. In the case of Baptism, sponsors are also expected to assist the parents of the child in their Christian duty as parents, by offering them support through good example, encouragement and prayer.

A sponsor should be a registered parishioner of IHM for at least 6 months. The person should also have received all the Sacraments of Initiation: Baptism, Eucharist, Confirmation. The Sponsor must be at least 16 years of age. The Sponsor should also participate at Mass each Sunday. If married, the sponsor must also be in a valid Sacramental marriage.

By issuing a Sponsor Certificate, a priest assures members of the faithful that a person is a Catholic in good standing who is eligible to serve as a sponsor for Baptism and/or Confirmation. Please contact the Rectory during regular business hours to inquire about Sponsor Certificates.
